VOL. X.

SUMMER NUMBER, 1903.

NOS. 9 & 10.

EDITORIAL AND VARIOUS.

THE FLAG-STAFF UP.—By the morning of Thursday, July 2, the flag-staff so kindly presented to the College by Mrs. J. A. Clift, was erect and complete in its position and at noon there took place a two-fold ceremony—the flag (likewise presented by Mrs. Clift) was hoisted for the first time and College was closed for the summer vacation. It was a lovely morning.

His Lordship the Bishop was happily able to be present, Mrs. Clift and some of her especial friends were there, a number of the Directors put in an appearance, everybody was in a good temper, and all things seemed to conspire to make the ceremony both pleasing and impressive. First the whole College assembled in the Hall and His Lordship the Bishop addressed the lads, announced vacation and read the closing prayers. Then all withdrew to the lawn in front of the College, and Mrs. Clift's little daughter, Flora, took the halyard and drew the first flag (a red ensign) to the top of the staff, while our Cadet Bugle Band sounded the royal salute. "God Save the King" followed and then cheers for Mrs. Clift, the Bishop, the College, the Headmaster and Mrs. Blackall, the masters, the holidays, "for ourselves."

We once more thank Mrs. Clift for her kindness. The choosing of the best site for the staff was a difficulty. It was generally agreed that if placed in the middle of the play-ground it would soon be rendered shabby and that the halyards would be frequently out of order. Under these circumstances the Headmaster consented to sacrifice the lawn to it and so there it stands, right in the middle of the lawn and right well it looks.

THE HONOURS BOARD.—Another lady is about to present an additional Honours Board. We hope to be in a position to give the name and other particulars in a later issue. Meanwhile we cannot help expressing our joy.

DIFFICULTY OF USING A FOREIGN LANGUAGE.—The following genuine advertisement is a good illustration of the absurd mistakes one is liable to make in expressing oneself in a foreign tongue:—

“A GIRDLE-FLAT-PURSE!!!—This Girdle is a very fine article, very fashionable, very strong, and of an absolutely necessary to everybody. She his very recommended for the security of the money because the theft are impracticably during the walkings and the travellings. This Girdle can be used for the maintenance of the trousers instead of the pair of braces and can be used for security of the cash, with the Flat-Purse adapted. I send this Girdle free by return of mail “Registered” as Parcel Post for exchange of 400 used postage stamps from Newfoundland.

“PAUL DUCOT,

“77 Rue Laroche 77,

“Bordeaux (France).”

THE RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS.—Incidentally we sent a copy of our last issue, containing some notes on the Rhodes scholarships, to Mr. W. T. Stead. The following reply is interesting:

“DEAR MR. BLACKALL,—I thank you for your letter. I shall look out for your magazine with interest. It has not yet come to my hand. Did you see Mr. Parkin who has written a confidential report which I have read as to the best method of selecting Rhodes scholars? He made a tour through Canada and the United States and has now gone to South Africa.

Yours sincerely,

“W. T. STEAD.”

MOWBRAY HOUSE, June 16th, '03.

No, we did not see Mr. Parkin, nor have we seen anything of his confidential report! We consider Mr. Parkin has slighted Newfoundland. Mr. Rhodes thought the Colony deserving of three scholarships a year and we should like to learn how it is that Mr. Parkin has failed to visit the island and learn of its position and its difficulties in relation to the awarding of these magnificent scholarships. It looks as though Mr. Parkin thought any scheme that would suit other parts would, or must suit Newfoundland. As far as we have been able to learn Mr. Parkin is really engaged in trying to place as scholars at Oxford a class of men never intended by the benefactor—a crowd of colonial graduates of over probably 22 years of age. It may be all right and these men may be as impressionable as younger men, but that is not our opinion and we do not think Mr. Rhodes had such in his mind.

KIND PROMISE OF MEDALS.—Mrs. L. Miller (the mother of Andrew) has generously promised three medals for distribution at Speech Day. We thank her sincerely. We shall soon be sending round to our other usual and very kind prize-givers.

THE BISHOP'S PRIZES.—Writing of prizes reminds us that we are in a position to announce the winners of the Bishop's prizes:—

FORM VI.—The Rev. T. Wilson, M.A., Vice-Principal of Queen's College, was good enough to give this form regular instruction in Divinity throughout the school year. He likewise examined the Form and reported thus:

“The class on the whole sent in very satisfactory papers. The subject we have been studying is one which lies somewhat outside the ordinary curriculum of a Bible class and was of course quite new work for our pupils. I have therefore every reason to be pleased with the progress made. Mistakes were made here and there in the papers but most of the boys showed that they have grasped the main facts. Dunfield sent in the best paper and I think he should be awarded the prize. J. Sceviour and H. Winter are equal and take the second position, whilst W. F. Rendell, who is third, did a very good paper.

One thing is rather remarkable about this report and that is that not a single member of the Upper Sixth apparently sent in a paper worthy of mention.

FORM V.—The Rev. H. G. Houseman, M.A., kindly took this Form every Wednesday afternoon throughout the year. His subject was “The Acts of the Apostles.” The paper he set at the end of the year was rather too difficult for the class and the marks gained were not very high. The three best boys were:—

- 1.—G. J. Oke,
- 2.—J. M. Martin,
- 3.—E. B. Chafe.

FORM IV.—Canon Dunfield favoured us with his help in this Form. The examination at the end of the year resulted thus:—

- | | | | |
|--------------------|-------|-------|-----------|
| 1.—Athol Robertson | | 60 | per cent. |
| 2.—Ph. Rendell | } | | 58 “ “ |
| J. Blackall | | | |
| 3.—J. Penny | } | | 55 “ “ |
| W. Weaver | | | |
| Eric Collier | | | |

FORM III.—We have to thank the Rev. C. V. Cogan for giving this Form instruction in religious knowledge during the year. An examination held at the end of the year brought the following boys to the top :—

1.—W. Bolt.....	86	per cent.
2.—P. Winter.....	72	“ “
3.—F. Ellis.....	61	“ “
4.—Andrews.....	59	“ “
5.—J. Clift.....	51	“ “

His Lordship the Bishop has expressed himself as pleased to give medals this year for a change. We thank His Lordship very sincerely ; we likewise feel deeply grateful to the clergymen who have given instruction and we congratulate the winners. The medals are very fine.

OTHER VICTORIES RECORDED.—(1) In the examination held in Arithmetic in Form III. at the end of the last College year the following boys came out on top :—

1.—P. Winter.....	98	per cent.
2.—A. Black.....	96	“ “
3.—H. Rendell.....	95	“ “
4.—J. Stevens } E. Parnell }	90	“ “

while the following boys gained over 70 per cent. :—A. Baird, A. Carter, Edg. Rendell, H. Whiteley, H. Worsley, R. Stein, F. Ellis, J. Baird. Most of the rest did exceedingly well.

(2) The Conduct Medal vote resulted this year in favour of C. E. Hunt. The next in number of votes were H. Hutchings and J. Simms. A greater honour cannot fall to a school-boy than to be voted the “best man” by his fellows. We congratulate these three lads and particularly the winner, C. E. Hunt.

A CONTRIBUTION FROM AN OLD BOY.—We direct attention to the notes about Oxford on other pages ; they are well worth reading. The Magazine is indebted to Raymond Harvey, now at Merton College, for this contribution. It is to be hoped he will again favour it. In the covering letter Raymond makes a very good suggestion. He writes :—

“ I hope that the Old Feildian Club proposed by a correspondent in one of your recent issues is something more than a proposition by now. A trysting day might be chosen once a year when the scattered O.F's might write, each to say where and how he is. These might be published once a year in an abridged form, as a supplement to the FEILDIAN. It would not take up much room—(? Ed.)—since where two or three are gathered together, one might be chosen as scribe for the duty. It might help to keep the feeling of unity up."

VERY GOOD OF QUEEN'S.—The following note explains itself:—

St. JOHN'S, N.F.,
July 1st, 1903.

DEAR MR. BLACKALL,—I have much pleasure in forwarding to you a cheque for $25, being a donation towards the fitting up of your Laboratory, and as a slight recognition of the services rendered by you to the students of Queen's College. . . .

Yours faithfully,
GEO. H. BOLT,
Sec'y-Treasurer.

The services referred to consisted of weekly demonstrations to the students of Queen's in the College Science Laboratory. We are greatly in need of an Attwood Machine and we propose setting this sum of $25 aside towards the expense of getting one. The total cost of importing the instrument would be $100.

A TEMPORARY COLLEGE FLAG.—Pending the proper designing of a suitable College Flag, a temporary one has been devised and executed. It consists of a dark blue ground with a cross upon it in light blue in the form of a St. George's Cross and in the top left-hand quarter thus effected are the letters B.F.C. As no light blue bunting could be obtained in the city silk had to be used. It was rather difficult to put together but the patient and skilful fingers of Miss Hele accomplished the work and it looks exceedingly well. We thank Miss Hele.

PROPOSED MANUAL TRAINING DEPARTMENT; NEW MASTER CONSEQUENTLY APPOINTED.—The following paragraphs, taken from the Diocesan magazine, are produced here as a record and for the enlightening of such as have not seen the Diocesan:—

"The Directors hope to complete arrangements for the proper conducting of Manual Training as a part of the College course by September of 1904. The Rev. Canon Pilot, Superintendent of our schools, has taken the matter up earnestly, and all know that when he puts his hand to the plough there is no looking backward. He visited the most important of the Manual Training schools of Canada in the spring, and convinced himself of the beneficial effects of the system. He has written an able report upon the subject (to be found in his last Annual Report for Church of England schools), and has co-operated with the Directors of the College since with a view to the establishing of a Manual Training school as part of the College, to act as headquarters of what he hopes may in time become a general system throughout the Diocese. Arrangements have been perfected for the provision of suitable quarters, and the authorities of Truro are going to train one of our local teachers in the art free of cost. The master selected is Mr. Samson, who consequently leaves the College for a year to receive a special course of training in Manual Training with a view to becoming our first Director of Manual Training. Mr. Samson will enter upon his duties at the College in Sept., 1904. The Directors, the Superintendent, and the Headmaster, were all agreed that it was better to send away one of our own teachers who had proved himself a success, than to engage a stranger who might prove a failure. In this school the teachers-in-training will receive instruction, so that in due time many of the teachers will be qualified in this branch.

"The departure of Mr. Samson in this connection leaves a vacancy on the staff, which is to be filled by Mr. P. F. Strout, M.A., of Harvard University. Mr. Strout is an old boy of 'Exeter'—the Eton, we understand, of the States, and has taken his M.A. at Harvard with marked success. Mr. Strout is truly a brilliant scholar, and a gifted linguist. He has taken a high standing in Latin, Greek and French at Harvard, and speaks French, German, Spanish and Italian. Mr. Strout is not only a scholar, but also a gentleman of great earnestness and strong moral purpose, and we think that his appointment to the College staff must be regarded as fortunate."

We give Mr. Strout a hearty welcome to Bp. Feild College and we pray that his sojourn with us may be attended with profit both to himself and to the College.

AN INSTRUCTIVE TABLE.—The following table shews the percentage of candidates sitting for the C.H.E. exams. (1902) in the several grades and subjects (1) who won distinction and (2) who failed. The table shews that there is great unevenness in the results and the question arises whose fault it is. Is it the fault of the examiners or is it the fault of the candidates? We are disposed to think it is less the fault of the candidates than of the examiners who presumably do not meet as a body to pass their papers as a whole and who do not sit as a body subsequently and standardize their marks. Here is the table:—

NOTES FROM OXFORD.

Eights and the 'Varsity.

OXFORD has Eights week in May, and this year people said "thank goodness"—for the weather was fine. Like Xmas this week comes but once a year, but it goes one better than Xmas, in that it is a seven day feast. Bathed in the dusty brilliancy of the afternoon sun, the Thames presents a spectacle quite French in its gaiety. The long row of houseboats alive with aunts and cousins, bedecked and beribboned—for with such is Oxford full to the overflow; the canoes and punts wedged together mosaic-like; the frantic figures on the long towing path; these and a myriad of other things make up the outward form of Eights' week.

But what went ye out for to see?

Marry, why the races, which attract people as a looking-glass does the swallow, as the snake fascinates the rabbit. Every college has its representative boat. These start 130 ft. apart in last year's order, and race mightily, each to "go up one"—to overtake and bump the boat in front. They form two divisions, these boats, the second rowing at 4.30, the first at 6; and the sandwich boat races in both. The crews row to their several starting points, where the college men meet them, armed to the teeth with a variety of sound-producing implements. A five-minute gun, a one-minute gun, and at length come the final ten seconds.

Blazers are off, and the boat is steadied, whilst time keepers, with various degrees of inaccuracy, count aloud the seconds. Five, four, three, two, one—GUN.

And suddenly you find yourself stumbling forward on the narrow pathway, every effort glued to the agonizing calculation of distance. The cox., small of stature, large of voice, and volubly insulting of tongue, screams at the striving crew, who of course cannot hear. They on the bank make all the noise in their power, he being considered the most cunning, who so manages his uproar, as to be able to give it the fullest scope when his boat bumps—if it does bump. The race over, the heroes are got, and lifted or dragged from their boat in various stages of exhaustion. The long weeks of training are forgotten, the full courses, the angry coach's megaphone notes. Their fellow-men treat them as the people of Lystra would have, saying: "The gods are come down to us in the likeness of men."

Rowing is the hardest of any line of sport at the 'Varsity, and as such yields precedence to no other in point of honour; weeks of training form the rower's lot in life; weeks of toiling in the narrow confines of an "eight" in weather fair and foul; weeks of being sworn at through the harsh medium of a megaphone—but that brings me to an anecdote (of which things there is world without end):—

It was hot, very hot. The crew had been rowing for quite 15 minutes—at least it seemed so—and to several individual members it was becoming a question of some moment, whether they could last out another stroke. The coach on horseback had for some time past been saying things which are not wont to be published—in fact many of them are not found in the dictionary. But "all is vanity" saith the preacher, so in despair he stopped them. "The whole lot of you," said he, "are fools, except number five"—number five beamed proudly round, the one exempt from such a hopeless lot—"and number five," continued the brazen trumpet, "is a LAZY fool."

Perhaps no description better fits a coach than that contained in the old doggerel:—

"Oh the gladness of his gladness when he's glad!
And the sadness of his sadness when he's sad!
But the gladness of his gladness,
And the sadness of his sadness,
Are nothing to his madness—WHEN HE'S MAD!"

And now the crowd melts away, to betake itself back to the old ivy-clad colleges with their time-worn sculptures—passive semblances of men, concerning whose greatness it were a shame to speak without like greatness. But the crowd only wanders from one joy to another; for there is dinner anon; Oxford flows with milk and honey all the time of Eights week; then comes the theatre, and so home and very merry.

To leave the river one must skirt the Cherwell, and it were better for us not to be Pharisees and pass by on the other side, but to notice it. This little river flowing into the Thames is a shady, slow-gliding stream, one of the fairest spots in England. The place breathes a delightful air of slackness, of flannel suits and spring gowns. Here the under-graduate—empty singer of an empty day—delights to waste time. He may do this with equal success either in a Canadian canoe [holding two persons] or in a punt [holding four]. Of course he prefers a "Canada," which will hold him and his young lady cousin, with no room for aunt. One canoe is called the P.T.O., which admonition many of them will obey with ease. Another is called "This Side Up." Punting is not so pleasant. It is hard work steering, and besides you get water—Thames water at that—up your sleeve. My first attempt fastened us irrevocably on to another punt rejoicing in the name of "Our Flat;" nor could any endeavour separate us, so in happy union we paddled home. The punt-pole often sticks in the mud; often too gets left behind, embedded in the bottom of the river with you at the top of it and the punt departing, another —— but there! Some people would not even believe that. But enough of the river! No further seek its merits to disclose or draw its frailties from their dread abode.

There are many undergraduates up here; all sorts and conditions. There is the "slacker" who drops in just "to look you up, old chap!" who puts his feet on your sofa and smokes innumerable cigarettes—yours of course; who prefaces his every remark with the reflection, "You know, old chap, I often think I talk too much about myself." Nothing ever seems to disturb the even tenor of his way. There is also the hardworking man who never takes any exercise; is always so busy, and ten minutes late for everything. For, being very methodical, should he lose ten minutes in the morning, it puts the whole day ten minutes late.

Of lectures you must attend about two per diem, though they waste time. The real work must be done in your own time, sitting on a straight-backed chair at your desk in the quiet of your own room. For in an arm-chair work is not work, but the disturber of dreams.

Again there is the "games man" who considers that one crowded hour of glorious life is worth an age without a name. He can talk usque ad nauseam about games, and about nothing else. He is idle, and carries a book merely for form's sake. At school he took two years getting Latin Grammar into his head; now he is taking another two or three years in forgetting it again. He usually has a hurt knee or a sore finger which he nurses continually, demanding sympathy at fixed intervals. He is a good fellow but (let me whisper) don't get anywhere near him at hockey.

The two latter types are often united in one, and this production is the back-bone of his college and the best of fellows. There is another person who though not an undergraduate is yet typical of the life. This individual is your "scout;" which is by interpretation your servant.

Now "your servant" sounds very well, but all is not gold that glitters. He is usually aged thirty years, and has a wife who keeps a boarding house somewhere. He breaks all your ornaments. "Please sir it comed to pieces in me 'ands," is the oft recurring formula. You never see the broken fragments, but you often think of the drawing-room mantelpiece in the boarding house, which mayhap is filled with a vain transient glory by your missing treasures. He wears your clothes if they fit him, but failing that, can pawn them equo animo.

I had almost forgotten the proctors of whom there are two. They are vested with absolute power for punishing undergraduates, and they smite between the joints of your harness, that is they get at your tenderest spot—your purse.

They are accompanied by professional runners who are perfect sleuth hounds. They may demand $1.20 of you for being without cap and gown after 9 p.m., with the same calm politeness and doffing of hat, as when indicating by what train you may leave when the University has no further need of your services. Last year someone escaped the hands of the law in a most ingenious manner—but it is seldom done. Hotly pursued one evening he sought refuge in the theatre. He rushed upstairs into the refreshment bar. With the genius of despair he dived beneath the counter, off with his coat, and was ready when the pursuers came panting up, with the professional query, "Whiskey and soda sir?" They went off to look for him elsewhere. But one of these tales is as good as a thousand, for their number is legion and their value nil.

There are many old and quaint customs observed at Oxford. On May morning the choir of Magdalen mount their tower at sunrise and sing lustily a Latin hymn. On the same day do the commoners of Queens go in order before a learned elder, who gives each a needle and a piece of thread, with the admonition "Be thrifty." The needle and thread I daresay they lose, and the advice I am quite sure they forget.

But Eights' week is but mortal and must have an end—as indeed must this epistle.

One last word about a very hackneyed subject—the Rhodes' scholarships. Now it is sad but too true that Oriel, to which many of the Rhodes scholars are to go, looks with a cold grey eye on the scheme. The undergraduate seems in no way to like this influx of new comers. He has however, let us hope, only to see of what sort colonials are, to change a false prejudice into a true opinion; and may this be the cause of closer friendship in the end, for the betterment of college, colonies and empire.

And so let the cousins and aunts drift away to seek pleasure elsewhere, leaving old crumbling Oxford to sit and brood over other days; days that are no more!

R. L. HARVEY.

THE COLLEGE GAMES.

THERE is a good deal to record under this head in this issue. We shall divide it into four parts: 1, The new qualifying rules of the C. A. L. 2, The Inter-Collegiate Cricket. 3, The College Cadets. 4, The College Athletic Sports.

(1) THE NEW QUALIFYING RULES OF THE C.A.L.

In order to be qualified to represent a College on one of the teams in the Inter-Collegiate competitions held under the auspices of the League, a player must comply with the following conditions:

1.—(a) He must be a whole day and regular attendant of one of the general classes undergoing a general education;

NOTE.—This section excludes students attending one of the Colleges for special, or technical subjects only.

(b) He must be subject to the discipline of the school in the same sense as the students generally;

(c) He must be engaged in no regular work in connection with the College or elsewhere, for which he receives any pecuniary remuneration;

(d) He must be under 21 years of age;

(e) In the case of a boy who has not been a member of the College in the sense of these rules for more than three months, a certificate must be furnished from his Headmaster to the effect that it is the intention of his parents or guardians that he continue at the College for at least two terms from the time of entering;

(f) In the case of boys who return to College after having been withdrawn for a period Section E shall be waived, provided that evidence satisfactory to the League be furnished, showing that the boy has returned for some specific educational purpose to be named, and that it is the intention of his parent or guardian that he should continue in attendance until the purpose has, if possible, been attained. In any case, the said boy must apply for and obtain the permission of the League to play.

2.—(a) Not less than a fortnight previous to the commencement of the several competitions, each College shall furnish to the other Colleges a list of the names of those from whom they intend to select their team, and one week previous to the first match a meeting of the League shall be held at which these names shall be submitted for approval. As each name is approved it shall be registered;

b; Should any team subsequently desire to register additional names, it must apply for a special meeting for that purpose;

(c) None shall be allowed to play in any of the matches of the competition whose names have not been previously registered.

(2) THE INTER-COLLEGIATE CRICKET.

IN SPITE of various difficulties occasioned by vaccination and otherwise our team did excellent work during the season. It is true that the coveted top place was won by St. Bonaventure's College, whom we congratulate, but Bp. Feild College made a close second, and an examination of the scores given below will show that had we had time to play out our matches with St. Bonaventure's we should have been the victors and thus have won the first place.

As it is, it will be seen that our Hal Hutchings has both the best batting and bowling averages.

We wish to enter a protest against unnecessary and wilful delay on the part of batsmen in going to the wicket, when playing against time. We do not think it the game at all.

We give below a statement of the cricket funds. Jim Simms attended to this part of the Cricket Club's affairs and is to be patted on the back for having kept his accounts so well. Every club should publish in these columns periodical financial statements.

The Club has no liabilities. We have for some years now adopted the cash system and nothing is now got unless the cash is in hand to pay for it. It is a most satisfactory rule.

Before we leave cricket we should like to say that it is our intention to order our next year's stock direct from England almost immediately in order that we may get better material; so that if any enthusiasts in cricket are desirous of presenting a bat or ball or other article to the Club next year, they should notify the Headmaster without delay.

The customs charges on cricket stock are a dreadful imposition on the lads and a distinct discouragement to a refining game. The amount reaped by the customs must be relatively insignificant and we respectfully suggest to His Majesty's Most Noble Government that they put cricket stock on the free list.

(3) THE COLLEGE CADETS.

Our company of Cadets has completed its second full year and Lance-Corporal Simms, Lance-Corporal Hiscock and Privates Dunfield and Rendell well deserve promotion on the year's work. They may feel assured that it is theirs.

We were sorry that the Company made such a poor shew in camp this year. Everybody in the Company from the Chaplain down is more or less to blame for this and it is to be hoped that preparations will begin at once for next year's camp. awarded his Corporal's stripe. competition will not be continued on the original lines, as the nature of the organization of B Co. renders it practically impossible for them to win. The intention for the future is to have an athletic competition inside of each company properly represented in camp and to award a medal to the athletic champion of each.

The King's real birthday is approaching. It is to be hoped that the whole Company will be ready to turn out for parade on the occasion, recruits and all.

The officers are anxious to organize a periodical section-competition and will be glad to receive from lads a suitable means of doing honour to the winning section.

At Christmas two medals will be awarded for drill, the one for the best "drill" in the ranks, the other for the best drill among recruits of less than six months standing.

Good luck to the College Cadets.

(4) THE B.F.C. ATHLETIC MEETING.

The annual College Sports were held at Llewelyn Place on Thursday, July 2nd. The weather was all that could be desired, a goodly number of friends gave encouragement by their presence and the events in the 1st and 3rd sections were well contested. The competition in the 2nd division was distinctly poor and resulted in a walk over for W. F. Rendell. Although it was the intention to give a champion prize only in each of the divisions, yet the competition was so keen and spirited in divisions 1 and 3 that it has been decided to give the 2nd men in each a prize.

His Excellency the Governor most graciously gives the champion prize for division 1. This kind offer was quite spontaneous on the part of His Excellency and we take it as a token of His Excellency's lively interest in the boys' games and thank him most sincerely.

Mr. Outerbridge always remembers our Athletic Meeting and directly he hears of preparations being made for it he sends a generous donation to the prize fund. We all thank him heartily.

The Hon. Edgar Bowring, who gives annual medals in connection with the College work, also sent a donation to the prize-fund, as also did the Rev. Canon Dunfield and Mr. C. S. Pinsent. We thank them all.

The most commendable performances of the afternoon were the high jump of Jim Simms, the running of Ed. Jeffery, the long jump of G. V. Boone, the running of W. F. Rendell, the jumping of R. Tait and the running of Eric Collier. Jim Simms cleared 5 ft. 1¾ in., Ed. Jeffery won the half-way in great form and G. V. Boone made a long jump of 16 ft. 8 in.

The College Cadets gave a very good exhibition of drill and were highly complimented by Lieut.-Colonel Outerbridge of the Newfoundland Regiment of the C.L.B.

B. Payne with his rider S. Pearce won the Cavalry Tournament, R. Simms for the 3rd or 4th time won the Old Feildian Race, and the Collegian Football Club won the 1st place in the football sixes.

The following was the programme :—

GOD SAVE THE KING.

NOTE.—(1) The events asterisked, together with the Long Jump, taken the day before, constitute the general athletic competition for the several Divisions. The boy in each Division gaining the greatest number of points is the "victor ludorum."

(2) The Divisions are: Boys of 15 and over—Division 1.
Boys between 12 and 15—Division 2.
Boys under 12—Division 3.

(3) By the consent of the C. O. of the C.L.B. and by the kindness of the members of the Band, the C.L.B. Band will give selections during the afternoon.

It only remains to say that the C.L.B. Band added much to the pleasure of the afternoon. In appreciation of their kindness they were entertained at dinner in the evening at Woods' West End Restaurant.

The financial statement will be published in a later issue when all the prizes have been bought.

THE C. L. B. IN CAMP.

THE C.L.B. held a very successful camp at Topsail this year. Capt. Alan Goodridge was Camp Adjutant and is to be congratulated upon his management. We very much regretted to find only two boys of the College Company there. We hope that we shall make a better show next year. An effort must be made to arrange the College tents before the closing of term in future. The only two lads to turn up were Lance-Corporal Hutchings and Private Lewis. Our Lance-Corporal did excellent service, as the following document shews, and he was awarded his Corporal's stripes before camp was struck:—

[COPY.]

CHURCH LADS BRIGADE,

Topsail Camp, August 12th, 1903.

Whereas,—On the 10th day of August, Anno Domini 1903, Thomas Cooper, cook to the Church Lads Brigade, Avalon Batallion, Nfld. Regiment, D. Willar, commanding, partook of some of his own concoction to the serious inconvenience of his internal arrangements and the grief and lamentations of those who foresaw the absence of dinner and having only so far disposed of two meals were exceedingly sad, and

Whereas,—B. Dicks, Esq., colour, mostly Colour-Sergeant in the aforesaid most inestimable forces, and Hal. Hutchings, Lance-Corporal in the above mentioned—and also mostly corporal—nobly stepped into the cook house, and

Whereas,—With much ingenuity and skill they composed a stew whose contents easily baffle man's understanding, and

Whereas,—We have partaken of that stew and have thereby managed to obtain a lack of space for anything else and still are alive but not kicking—a way we have.

Be it Resolved,—(1st) That they can cook; (2nd) We can eat their production and live; (3rd) They are worthy of our commendation; (4th) They have it; and (5th) That a copy of these resolutions to the noble self-sacrificing dispositions of these men, nearly as heroic as ourselves, be forwarded them, and a copy to the press of the Cannibal Islands for publication.

Mess President Mr. Alderdice being still overcome it is signed by any other member who was absent at the time.
